

PERPENDICULARLY-ORIENTED INVERTED F ANTENNA

Abstract

An antenna connected to a board includes a radiator perpendicular to the circuit board for transmitting and receiving radio frequency signals, a feeding plate stretching out from the radiator and connected to a feed pad on the circuit board for transmitting radio frequency signals, and a ground plate stretching out from the radiator, which is connected to a ground plane on the circuit board.